From the Executive Director

Angela Ciolfi

Executive Director, Legal Aid Justice Center

Dear friends,

I came to the Legal Aid Justice Center in the fall of 2004, planning to stay no more than two years. Fifteen years later, I still can't get enough. Where else can you find a neighborhood legal aid doing work that is both deeply rooted in local communities and has a nationwide impact? As one supporter recently told me, "It's like going to a baseball game expecting to play Triple A and finding out you're in the Major Leagues!"

The pages that follow are more than an annual report-out of our activities. Inside, you'll find myriad examples of YOUR impact on individuals, local communities, the Commonwealth of Virginia, and our nation.

You'll read about individuals for whom we had the honor to be their lawyer as they fought for their rights. You'll read about efforts to support local coalitions seeking to hold their communities accountable to the common good. You'll read about changes to state law, including a signature win on driver's license suspensions reform. And finally, you'll read about ways that your investment here in Virginia has made a difference nationwide on critical issues such as fighting back against family separation.

Through it all, you will see the ways that YOU have helped to bring about more justice and less poverty, and I hope you'll agree with my experience: LAJC's work is addictive.

On behalf of the LAJC family, thank you for believing in our "small but scrappy" poverty-fighting machine.

Yours,

Our Programs

Each of our programs works to end generational poverty through a wide range of strategies and tools including individual and group legal representation, impact litigation, policy advocacy, communications, and community organizing and education.

ECONOMIC JUSTICE

Making it less expensive to be poor by fighting for affordable housing, access to healthcare, and for consumer and workers' rights.

CIVIL RIGHTS AND RACIAL JUSTICE

Fighting the criminalization of poverty by eliminating the ways contact with the criminal-legal system creates or exacerbates poverty in low-income communities of color.

IMMIGRANT ADVOCACY

Protecting the lives and livelihoods of immigrants

by standing with immigrants at home, at work, and in the courts.

JUSTCHILDREN

Building communities where all children thrive

by demanding equity in public education and a fair and restorative youth justice system.

Who We Are

Our Mission

Our mission is to seek equal justice for all by solving clients' legal problems, strengthening the voices of low-income communities, and rooting out the inequities that keep people in poverty.

01

01

Individual Impact

Your support provided access to justice to over 2,400 families who received one-on-one legal services across a wide range of issues that directly impacted their stability.

INDIVIDUAL IMPACT

The ACA Persists

Despite open enrollment being cut in half from twelve weeks to six, our staff and volunteer navigators, led by volunteer extraordinaire Jack Hanrahan, helped 258 families access health insurance and subsidies through the Affordable Care Act.

Paid for their Work

We represented a group of homeless men who were recruited to work at a motel, for up to 40 hours (and sometimes more) per week, at no pay, in exchange for mold and bug infested housing. We filed a federal complaint and won recompense of full wages—plus some additional compensation—for each of the workers. The worker who had been there the longest was awarded over $21,000.

INDIVIDUAL IMPACT

1st Grade Will Be Better

Mary spent her kindergarten year going to school half-time in a classroom with no other students because her school refused to provide her the educational services she needed for her disability. After we spent months supporting Mary's mom's advocacy, Mary started 1st grade this fall in a full-day classroom with other children and the supportive services she needs to succeed.

+13,000

Over 13,000 Virginians directly benefited from our individualized legal services.

$5,522,204.28

in economic benefits (including services) were secured or preserved.

INDIVIDUAL IMPACT

Keeping Families Together

Herbert came to the Legal Aid Justice Center because his family was facing eviction from a mobile home park because he did not have a social security card. We filed a Federal Fair Housing Act lawsuit on his behalf and on behalf of other families in the same situation. While the case was pending, Herbert's Temporary Protected Status (TPS) was revoked and he was ordered into deportation proceedings. We stepped in on his behalf and convinced a judge to cancel his deportation order, allowing him to remain in the United States and get on a waiting list for a green card. We convinced the judge by putting on over two hours of testimony demonstrating both that Herbert is a pillar of his community and that deportation would cause grave harm to his five children.

Dignity Restored

Mr. Lewis's property manager defaced his door with graffiti, refused him entry to his own home, and put up a yard sign accusing him of false accusations. We sued on his behalf, and a jury awarded him $120,000 in damages. Mr. Lewis is considering buying a trailer and some land, so that he's never at the mercy of an abusive landlord again.

CASES BY TYPE

LEVEL OF SERVICES

Caring Takes Time

Ms. Jackson is the sole caretaker for her adult son who has been paralyzed for the last seven years. She was devastated to learn that Medicaid had unilaterally decided to cut the time they would pay her to care for her son from 96 to 33 hours per week. There was no way she could care for herself and him if this cut went through. We represented Ms. Jackson on her appeal, and Medicaid eventually agreed to cover 88 hours of care per week, ensuring that Ms. Jackson could continue to care for her son herself instead of institutionalizing him.

02

02

Local Impact

Your support strengthened the voices of low-income communities by providing critical support to community-led justice initiatives.

TRASHING ILLEGAL TRASH FEES

DE-ICE VIRGINIA

Trashing Illegal Trash Fees

At one of our monthly food distribution events for day laborers and their families in Fairfax, we learned that a particular housing complex had instituted a new garbage collection fee, and many families were struggling to pay the fee and their rent each month. We investigated, found the fee to be illegal, and wrote a letter to the management company who quickly abandoned the scheme. Nearly 400 families in that complex are saving, collectively, $10,000 every month they aren't paying the extra fee.

Affordable Housing in Cville

Through our support of the Public Housing Association of Residents (PHAR) and the Charlottesville Low-Income Housing Coalition (CLIHC), LAJC helped secure over $11 Million in City funding for redevelopment, along with increased tax relief for low-income homeowners and stable revenue for the affordable housing fund. We also helped to draft a contract between the City, PHAR, and a developer that gives residents a tremendous amount of control over the first phase of public housing redevelopment.

After two years of advocacy, we also helped residents secure agreement from the city to create a city-wide, comprehensive housing strategy that consolidates a city-wide zoning code rewrite, comprehensive plan, zoning map rewrite, and the writing of a formal housing strategy into a single process towards which the City has committed $900,000. The agreement includes calls for genuine community engagement and a serious look at the racial history of housing in Charlottesville.

A Strong CRB

We provided significant logistical and legal support to the People's Coalition, a group of community members seeking to install a Civilian Review Board (CRB) empowered to provide meaningful oversight of the Charlottesville Police Department. The group succeeded in lobbying for the creation of an initial CRB and then the development of by-laws for the group going forward. We are now supporting their ongoing efforts to have those by-laws approved.

DE-ICE VIRGINIA CAMPAIGN IN CULPEPPER

LOCAL IMPACT

Fighting Excessive Utility Fees

At the urging of public housing resident leaders in Richmond, we filed a class action lawsuit challenging the Richmond Public Housing Authority's (RRHA's) over-charging of residents for their utilities. RRHA settled with residents resulting in over $1,295,860 being returned to current and former residents, as well as changes to RRHA's utility allowance calculation resulting in a savings of over $433,000 in excess fees each year going forward.

A STRONG CRB

LOCAL IMPACT

De-ICE Virginia

We supported residents in localities throughout Virginia as they pressured local officials to end their voluntary facilitation of ICE arrests and detentions. Norfolk, Fairfax, Arlington, Alexandria, Fauquier, Harrisonburg, Charlottesville, and Albemarle took steps to limit the ways in which their resources are commandeered to terrorize immigrant communities and rip families apart.

Release the Data

We supported successful efforts by the Richmond Transparency and Accountability Project (RTAP) to pressure the Richmond Police Department to regularly release use of force data that RTAP then used to produce a report, Our Streets, Our Say, which highlighted the inequities in that data. The report called for the Richmond Police Department to prioritize community input to capture & share more robust, better quality data, ban predictive policing, and establish civilian oversight.

With true structural change, there would be far less need for charity; without it, the very best charitable efforts will never be enough.

MARIAN WRIGHT EDELMAN

03

Statewide Impact

Your support brought about statewide reforms to root out the inequities that keep people in poverty.

BREAKING THE JAIL-TO-ICE PIPELINE

STATEWIDE IMPACT

Breaking the Jail-to-ICE Pipeline

We successfully advocated for The Office of the Attorney General to issue a legal opinion advising local law enforcement that administrative warrants issued by ICE seeking to place the immigrant in deportation proceedings are not judicial warrants and do not authorize localities to detain immigrants in jail past their release dates. This opinion strengthens local advocacy statewide to end voluntary cooperation in ICE activities.

STATEWIDE IMPACT

Medical Care Fight Continues

We continue to fight to force the state to provide adequate healthcare to the women incarcerated at Fluvanna Correctional Center for Women. We took the Virginia Department of Corrections (VDOC) back to court for a week-long trial and won a decision from Judge Moon that the VDOC was failing to fully comply with our 2016 settlement agreement.

STATEWIDE IMPACT

Driver's License Suspension Relief

Our Drive Down the Debt campaign started in 2014 when a jail superintendent brought a serious problem to the Charlottesville reentry council: his jail was full of people locked up just for driving on a suspended license. To tackle the problem, LAJC recruited pro-bono attorneys to help people get their licenses back. It did not take long before realizing that trying to get people's license back one by one was not working. There were just too many people and too many barriers.

So we began building a multi-faceted campaign to end court debt license suspension. We took our campaign to the courts, to the Capitol, and to the public. Finally, after five years, four bipartisan bills, two federal court complaints, multiple report releases, and one preliminary injunction, we worked with Senator Bill Stanley, the Virginia Black Legislative Caucus, the Northam Administration, and dozens of community partners to pass a budget amendment temporarily freezing enforcement of Virginia's license suspension statute and rescinding nearly one million suspensions that were currently in effect. As a result nearly 30,000 people had their licenses immediately restored, with the remaining people needing to take other corrective action, such as renewing if their licenses had expired while suspended.

We are working now to make this reform permanent through both continued legislative advocacy and our class action lawsuit, Stinnie v. Holcomb, which is currently stayed by the court until after the 2020 Virginia General Assembly session. One way or another, we will permanently end this draconian system that punishes people for their poverty by taking away their ability to lawfully support themselves and their families.

STATEWIDE IMPACT

Protecting Farmworkers' Rights

Based on our legal arguments, The Office of the Attorney General released a new advisory opinion that reaffirms and strengthens the rights of migrant farmworkers living on labor camps to receive visits from legal advocates and social workers who could not be prosecuted for trespassing. This is welcome news for our farmworker team, which visits hundreds of labor camps across the Commonwealth every year to build community alongside farmworkers and defend their rights.

STATEWIDE IMPACT

Relief for Immigrant Youth

We helped pass two bills restoring the ability of abused, neglected, or abandoned children to apply for specialized immigration relief. The bills also address the needs of other children before Virginia's juvenile courts, easing the way for any Virginia child to seek a state court's assistance in proving eligibility for other benefits such as adoption assistance, TANF assistance, and timely public school enrollment.

Reducing Suspensions

In 2012, we successfully advocated for a bill to require local school divisions to report discipline data by race/ethnicity. We then analyzed and reported that data year after year and exposed the glaring racial disparities in an annual report titled Suspended Progress, which provides data, analysis, and recommendations on school discipline and policing reform at both state and local levels. In 2018, we led efforts to pass two bills that limited suspensions by capping the length of long-term suspensions and prohibiting suspensions for Virginia's youngest students, as well as a bill that eliminated mandatory delinquency court referrals for truancy in favor of school-based support plans.

STATEWIDE IMPACT

Police Role in Schools Defined

Last year we helped to shape Virginia's first model memorandum of understanding (MOU) between schools and police departments. This year we won new legislation to require MOUs between local school divisions and local law enforcement whenever officers are placed in schools, in an effort to define the scope of police duties in the school environment. Over-policing in schools can have major negative impacts on school climate and increase race-based disparities in the school-to-prison pipeline.

STATEWIDE IMPACT

Pre-Trial Detention Transparency

We worked with legislators to put forward a bill that would have required the state to collect more data on criminal pre-trial detention practices in Virginia. Ultimately the bill was referred to the Virginia Crime Commission for study. We are now educating the members of the Commission and other legislators about how this system harms low-income communities and communities of color and the need for transparency in order to fix it.

STATEWIDE IMPACT

School Safety Equals More Counselors

We have guided the school safety conversation in Virginia towards investment in school counselors and other vital support staff. We helped pass a bill requiring school counselors to increase direct services to students, and we secured $12 million in the state budget to begin lowering counselor-to-student ratios. We also successfully advocated for an increase—ultimately totaling approximately $25 million—to Virginia's "At-Risk Add-On" education funding stream, which directly benefits economically disadvantaged students.

Exposing the Shadow School System

We successfully passed legislation to require schools to report a broad spectrum of data points on the use of alternative education in discipline matters. This bill will begin to provide a scaffolding to the otherwise entirely opaque alternative education system, while offering a road map on how Virginia should build a system with quality standards and due process for students.

04

National Impact

Your support is making a difference beyond Virginia.

NATIONAL IMPACT

Strengthening the Fair Housing Act

In Reyes v. Waples, we won a first-in-the-nation precedent-setting decision at the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals affirming that undocumented tenants in private housing are protected under the federal Fair Housing Act and that requiring proof of immigration status can violate the Fair Housing Act if it leads to evicting Latinx families in disproportionate numbers. The Fourth Circuit's decision gives housing advocates a new, powerful tool to protect undocumented communities, and the Supreme Court declined to take up the case, securing the precedent.

NATIONAL IMPACT

Elevating License Suspension Reform

Our Drive Down the Debt Campaign seeks to permanently end the use of driver's license suspension to collect court fees and fines. The campaign has helped to elevate this issue nationally. Our class-action lawsuit, Stinnie v. Holcomb, has inspired similar efforts in half a dozen states, and the media attention the campaign and case have generated have helped put this critical justice issue at the forefront of reform efforts nationwide.

NATIONAL IMPACT

Family Separation: The Parents

In response to the family separation crisis last summer, we participated in the emergency effort to provide legal representation to parents separated from their children at the border. Over the course of a week, our group met with over 200 detained parents. While there, we saw that many parents who should have been able to get past the initial step in applying for asylum were being rejected (and placed in priority deportation proceedings) because they were too traumatized from being separated from their children to meaningfully participate in the process.

We represented five Virginia-bound families, securing their release and reunification. We also, along with Muslim Advocates, filed a class action lawsuit, Dora v. Sessions, arguing that these traumatized parents deserved a second opportunity to apply. The administration ultimately settled, canceling the imminent deportation of hundreds of parents and giving each a second opportunity. To date, every single parent who has been given a second chance has successfully moved on to the next step in the process, which allows them to stay in the United States while they pursue their asylum claims.

NATIONAL IMPACT

Family Separation: The Children

Since early 2017, the number of children in immigrant detention has risen from approximately 2,000 to more than 10,000. One of the primary reasons for this spike in detentions is that the administration has weaponized their child welfare agency by putting the families who try to sponsor children in detention at risk of being detained themselves. Many children remain in detention for no other reason than the policy forcing families into an impossible choice where getting their children out of detention puts the entire family at risk.

In response to this travesty, we filed a class action lawsuit challenging the administration's decision to require their child welfare agency to share sponsor information with ICE for the purpose of detaining sponsors and their families. We expect the case,

J.E.C.M. et al. v. Hayes et al., to go to trial in early 2020. We also recently hosted a convening of some of the most prominent immigrant rights' organizations in the country to strategize around how to fight the legal structures being used to justify and execute the administration's cruel family separation policies.

NATIONAL IMPACT

New Network for Equity in Education

We joined legal aid and community organizing groups from across the nation as founding members of the Partnership for Equity and Education Rights, a national network fighting for full and equitable funding for public education, funding formulas that provide increased resources for vulnerable students, and revenue solutions to address inadequate funding for schools in low-income communities.
